and performed any obligation to, or discharged any obligation of, an account, whether the obligation was undertaken before or after the commencement of the Administration.

(10) Provided that a person shall not be deemed to have traded with the money by reason only that he has—

(a) done anything under an authority given generally or specially by, or by any person authorized in that behalf by, the Central Government; or

(b) received payment from an owner of a sum of money due to a person under which all obligations as the part of the person receiving payment had been performed before the commencement of the Administration.

(11) Any reference in this rule to an account shall be construed as including a reference to a person acting as holder of an account.

(12) Any person who trades with the money shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years and shall also be liable to fine.

(13) No transaction which constitutes an offence of trading with the money shall, except in such extent as the Central Government may by general or special order provide, be enforceable in so far as it involves any rights or remedies on the part of any transaction or any person entering under there.

(14) For the purpose of securing compliance with the provisions of this Part, the Central Government may appoint committees and inspectors.

(15) (1) If it appears to the Central Government expedient that any business should be subject to inspection, or to any or several regulations with the provisions of this Part, the Central Government may authorize a committee or an inspector to examine such business, and may, by order, regulate all matters incidental to such inspection.

(2) If any person contravenes any order lawfully given by a committee or inspector that person shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months and shall also be liable to fine.

(3) If any person with intent to evade the provisions of this Part commits, directs, abets, or aids, or induces any book or other document, that person shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six years and shall also be liable to fine.

PART XVI.

Control of Bank Firms

101. In this Part—

(1) "money market" means—

(a) any institution which possesses the entire ability of a bank as set out in the Money, or having deemed such a relationship at any time has had it without answering to them accordingly; or

(b) any body of persons authorized or incorporated in or under laws of such State;

(2) "money firm" means—

(a) any money market who is, or at any time subsequent to the 2nd September 1939, was carrying on any business in British India; or

(b) any firm, whether constituted in British India or not, of which any member or officer is, or at any time subsequent to the 2nd September 1939 was an officer, partner, or agent, and which is, or at any time subsequent to the 2nd September 1939, was carrying on business in British India; or

The amount for which a single foreign sterling money order may be issued has been limited to £41 or such smaller sum as may be determined by the Bank of England in its discretion in conformity with the requirements laid down by the Exchange Control, London, to meet the needs of the sterling money order market. It is a significant feature of the new system that the sterling money order is not issued for the remittance of funds from Great Britain to Northern Ireland, which has received the proceeds of the sale of the sterling money order according to the provisions of the new system. The sterling money order is issued by the Bank of Ireland from a single authority on day for remittance either to Great Britain and Northern Ireland or to Northern Ireland only. The sterling money order is issued in the sum of £100 or such smaller sum as may be determined by the Bank of Ireland in its discretion.
